

MEDICAL CERTIFICATE

Any candidate wishing to practise motor-cycling sports must first undergo a full medical aptitude test.

The general practitioner can ask for this medical test should he or she find it necessary for the no-contraindication certificate. Also, in a first competition licence request, special attention should be given to the sight test. This examination may be carried out either by the general practitioner or by an ophthalmologist. Eye-sight acuity should be above or equal to 8/10ths, both eyes open simultaneously at a distance of 5 metres, colour vision enabling recognition of signal flags and a normal field of view (120° horizontal).

In the case of anomaly, both an examination by a specialist and the opinion of the Medical Committee will be demanded. A candidate's physical state must be compatible with the practice of motorcycling competition. Certain neurological conditions, epilepsy, balance and coordination problems, insulin-dependent diabetes, unilateral blindness, and defects in the loco motor apparatus will require the advice of the Medical Committee. Acute coronary insufficiency, treated and persistent arterial hypertension, cardiac transplant, severe coagulation problems, chronic kidney failure and dialysis are absolute contraindications. The effects of pharmacological substances that modify attention, vigilance and behaviour are submitted to the opinion of the medical examiner. The above list of contraindications is not exhaustive. In certain specific cases the FFM may deliver restricted handicap licences. In this case a medical certificate should be addressed to the federal doctor.
